

On The Great White Way

NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to The Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

Mrs. Ed Jones, 1402 La Crosse St., was the winner of last week's "Guess Who's Here," of which Joseph Boschert was the subject.

In the old days the teacher in the country school appointed "monitors," and everybody wanted to be a monitor. The monitor's business was to collect coats and wraps and take them to the "cloak room," to carry water, etc. The hero of this sketch has appointed a Monitor, but not to carry water. (Here's where your guess should begin to brew.) He's the great, great, great, great grandson of a king. His eyes are gray—or blue, light blue, perhaps. He vandykes his beard, which is blond; he parts his hair on the side and his disposition in the middle. One-half of his disposition is to hector his friends and to passionately bad humor; the other half is to jolly them back to good humor. Aside from an occasional flyer on elections, he's a speculator. He realizes that a work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, so he plays billiards occasionally, when he's sure his expert son isn't in the office prepared to snipe at his excess of vigor and lack of technique. By the way, there are no sides to every story, and the important side of this story is the Nor side.

"SHOULD AULD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOT"

C. W. Talmadge of West Pullman, Ill., is an old acquaintance who brings to mind reminiscences of the early days when La Crosse was but one of the many villages scattered along the river Mississippi. He is now prosperous merchant and was born at the Talmadge house, one of the early landmarks of the city which was located at Third and Second streets and was destroyed by the great fire of 1840.

About twenty years ago Mr. Talmadge moved to Trempealeau with his parents but later went to Chicago and finally settled at West Pullman. While in the city a few days ago, Mr. Talmadge displayed a copy of the first edition of the Spirit of the Times, the first newspaper published in La Crosse.

Prominent among the contents of the paper was a hot advertisement on the front page with the following invitation: "At the sign of the elk's horn. Plenty to eat except meat and bread."

Mr. Talmadge who has developed a large business at West Pullman never fails to make an annual visit to his home city and declares that each succeeding visit finds the city more attractive than ever before.

YARNS OF THE TOWN

Mike is Irish and red headed. In fact he's red all over, as becomes a respectable Irish Spaniel. Mike acknowledges a sort of fraternal friendship for one H. Clay Evenson, at whose residence on South Sixteenth street he has his bed and board.

Mike has two pals, a rather wolfish black setter and a very fox near-collie. Both of Mike's pals are of the swashbuckling sort and the three buccaners range the territory around Sixteenth and Main streets with predatory intent, always ready for a fight or a frolic and still more ready for a feed.

The foregoing by way of introduction to an incident calculated to show that dogs are just like men, only more so.

One morning early in the week the writer meandered north on Sixteenth street, doubtful whether he was moving or standing still, owing to two conflicting impulses. Conscience and gout said, "Walk!" Habit and inclination said, "Wait for the car!" But the gout was acute and the conscience was comatose, so you see for yourself what happened.

Well, while I waited for the car a tiny white fox terrier came down the street on three legs and its nose, pausing indecorously ever and anon. It was a harmless little vag, as peaceful as the atmosphere of that glorious morning. Quiet reigned. There was the stillness of death. A dead calm, and all that yellow-backed hush business. Look out! I'm getting ready for the big crash! Presto!

Mike and his flying squadron came in a rush from behind a house and catapulted upon that scared brat of a puppy. He wouldn't have made tiffin for the least of them and he knew it, so he rolled over on his back and sticking his feet straight up, prepared to be humiliated. But the three bushwhackers weren't malicious. They knew the terrier wasn't worthy of serious attention, and his prompt if undignified capitulation had saved him much annoyance. Indeed, the flying squadron proceeded to assure him, in that rather personal manner affected by even the most aesthetic of canines, that it was all a huge joke. Whereupon the terrier fell joyfully upon the fetlock of the setter and displayed a truly dardel brand of ferocity. Thence and henceforth he was one of them.

Now the conduct of the three big dogs struck me as being thoroughly sportsmanlike, and moved by a desire to express my appreciation I hailed the trio.

"Hello, sports!" That's what I said. "Hello sports," just like that. And bang! they were upon me. The setter led the charge, backed closely by the near-collie. They meant business, and kept circling around me. I didn't want to be undignified, but I was willing to compromise, to apologize, if need be. Vain subterfuge! The more I sought to placate them, the fiercer they got.

Meanwhile Mike was ambulating around me, too. But Mike was wagging his tail. He was a sport, and he didn't object to being called one. He seemed to feel that I was a sport, too, and he was in for a romp. I patted his head as he darted in and out with the others, and he occasionally paused to momentarily favor his pals with a stare of surprise and disgust at their inhospitable conduct.

Finally the near-collie snapped at my hand so viciously that I had recourse to militant action hitherto avoided. I stooped quickly and picked up a half brick upon which I had been keeping a shifty eye. The effect was instantaneous. The black setter and the near-collie "beat it" in wild panic, emitting short yips of fear and never stopping until safely beyond the reach of any missile. In their flight they ran over the terrier who went rolling in loud ki-o-dle despair until he ended up in a complete collapse against a familiar landmark known to humans as the telephone pole.

Now that's where dogs are a lot like men. Here were these two blustering bullies hurling dog-billings-gate at me with the off-hand eloquence of four-flushing strong arm rowdies, and growing uglier with my every attempt to pacify or temporize. But the moment I showed the least flicker of fight, they took to the woods in dismay. Ever see a man do anything about like that?

But Mike was different. Mike, who had been playing good naturedly with me, Mike who had declined to be disagreeable, Mike who was in it for fellowship and fun—did Mike not beat it with his pals?

Yes, Mike did not. Mike ruffled up his neck until it was as big as a turkey's brush. Mike's eyes got red, like his hair. Mike uttered a low, deep sound of warning, and walked up close to me. Mike kept one eye on that brick and the other on my face, and his look said plainly enough, "Throw it if you dare!" I took Mike's word for it. I backed into the street car when it arrived, and I didn't drop the brick for half a block, for Mike stood back there at the crossing, watching me.

And again there's where dogs are a lot like men. Friendly, peaceful Mike was a good sport and a good fellow. He wanted to play, he didn't want to fight. But you just start a fight with him, and see! Ever see a man who acted about like Mike?

RAE CALLS UPON ALL UNION MEN

Members of Locals Are Asked to Be Present at Hood Protest Meeting Wednesday Night

F. J. WEBER WILL PARTICIPATE

State Organizer Wires Rae that He Will Come to La Crosse to Take Part in Meeting

"The Trades and Labor Council wishes to notify all union men to be present at a mass meeting at the old Y. M. C. A. hall, 415-417 King street, at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, Feb. 26, to take action in the matter of certain bills damaging to labor, introduced in the state assembly by Hon. C. L. Hood, of the First La Crosse county assembly district."

John Rae, organizer for the La Crosse Trades and Labor Council, today requested the newspapers to make the above announcement.

Mr. Rae received a telegram this morning from Frank J. Weber, state organizer of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, in which the latter said he would positively be present and participate in the meeting Wednesday night.

Assemblyman Hood will be asked to explain his position, and it is said the unions may put it up to him to withdraw the bill that is regarded as destructive of the value of the workmen's compensation act.

CONGRATULATES FATHER

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 22.—Attorney Guy D. Goff, prominent in legal circles here and throughout the state, today sent a telegram of congratulation to his father, Judge Nathan Goff, elected United States senator from West Virginia yesterday.

PRELATES' REPLY EXPECTED MONDAY

Complaint and Summons Against La Crosse Bishop Arrives Here Today

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 22.—It was expected a reply would be filed Monday in the suit of the Kuryer Polski against Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee, Bishop Fox of Green Bay, Bishop Schwebach of La Crosse, Bishop Schinner of Superior and Bishop Els of Marquette, Mich. Contained in the bill is the charge that Kuryer readers were refused burial in Catholic cemeteries, although life-long members of the Roman church.

The complaint and summons in the Kuryer Polski suit against Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee and the three Wisconsin bishops, arrived in La Crosse today and will be served on Bishop James Schwebach by Sheriff John Webber Monday.

In the accounts of the suit which appeared in the Milwaukee newspapers this morning there was a considerable discrepancy as to the amount of damages asked by the Polish newspaper, but according to the complaint received here today, the statement which appeared in the Tribune yesterday to the effect that damages to the amount of $100,000 was asked, was correct.

Although the case will be tried in Milwaukee, intense interest has been aroused in La Crosse.

TO RECALL MILITIA?

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 22.—If quiet continues in the Paint and Cabin Creek coal strike district, Governor Glasscock today announced that he will probably order all but one company of state militia home on February 26.

It stands on the Madison State Journal that the senate voted to prevent Senator Otto Bosshard from smoking during the session last Wednesday. It wasn't class legislation, although it did refer to Otto, to whom there is "some class."

Rule II, of the state senate, forbids smoking during sessions of that body. Wednesday Otto, who likes the weed and who saw a long session coming, moved that Rule II be suspended. For Otto wanted to smoke. In fact, Otto felt that he just must smoke.

But Senator Randolph, who hits next to Senator Otto, and who was dying to smoke, too, martyred himself to the treat of getting one on Otto. Hon. Randolph objected, tearfully, eloquently. The senate saw the joke, and when Hon. Otto's resolution was put to vote it was defeated by one less than a unanimous vote.

"Just a little test of personal strength," said Senator Randolph, complaisantly.

MIDDLE WEST IN GRASP OF STORM

RAIL AND WIRE SERVICE CRIPPLED

Trains Stalled and Even Weather Bureau Is Unable to Get Reports

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 22.—For the first time since it was established the Milwaukee weather bureau today failed to issue a forecast. Up to noon, the wires connecting the local bureau with other stations were ominously silent and not a single report had been received from outside the state.

Telephone communication from Wisconsin cities told of the worst storm in years. Railroads are moving the passenger trains with utmost difficulty and freight traffic has been practically abandoned. Wire service is bad.

Minnesota Suffers MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 22.—An old-fashioned Washington's birthday blizzard has Minnesota and the Dakotas fast in its grasp today. The railroads are having great difficulty in keeping traffic moving, particularly in southern Minnesota. Telegraph and telephone communication is badly crippled.

At Winona over a foot of snow has fallen this morning and, as the temperature remains above 20 above and a strong wind is blowing, the snow is packing in drifts on railroad tracks and rural roads.

Two persons were reported missing here today, August Linton, 60, and Clara Oplo, 50.

Attacks Middle West CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The middle west ceased basking in the summer sunshine today and steeled itself against a heavy snowstorm and another spell of cold. The storm that started in the southwest has advanced eastward and was today general over the middle west.

In Chicago the sleet storm that almost cut Chicago off from telegraphic communication with the rest of the world hardened today to snow. The forecast for tonight was for more snow and lower temperatures in almost every state between the Mississippi and the Rockies with the center of the storm district in southeastern Wisconsin.

Fishermen Lost in Blizzard

PETOSKEY, Mich., Feb. 22.—Caught in a blinding snowstorm on Little Traverse bay, half a score of fishermen today are trying to gain shore and safety. Unable to see more than a few feet in any direction, they are rowing aimlessly over the blizzard swept waters. Fears for their safety are expressed by their more lucky fellows who by chance gained the mainland.

The storm which swept this region last night and continued today was the worst in years.

THOMPSON IS URGED TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Although the week closed today with but three announced candidates in the field for the mayoralty, it is rumored in political circles that next week may find at least one more candidate in the race. A delegation of citizens yesterday waited on former District Attorney James Thompson and urged him to become a candidate, but when interviewed today Mr. Thompson refused to admit that he would consider the proposition. It is said today that a number of his friends may circulate a petition asking him to run, but nothing definite could be learned of this movement.

Mr. Thompson completed his second term as district attorney of La Crosse county in January, and while holding that office he made an enviable record. He has also served in the capacity of chairman of the republican county committee.

Manchu Empress Rumored Suicide

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Hans Bauder, son of a Swiss clergyman and president of the International Realty association, was held today by federal authorities on charges of embezzlement preferred by the Swiss government. Arnold Holinger, consul for the Swiss confederation, charges that Bauder swindled his fellow countrymen out of nearly $500,000 by means of a private bank operated in Basel, Switzerland, and a Nevada mining stock scheme.

ELUDES CABINET PROBLEM

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—President-elect Wilson who spent most of the forenoon in New York today, managed to stay in town all last night without letting a single hint of the personnel of his cabinet drop from him. He planned to spend the day at his cottage in Princeton, sorting his papers and books for packing and shipping to Washington.

MACVEAGH DEFENDS TREASURY ORDER 5

Says Income and Outgo of U. S. Deposits Practically Balance Each Other

CLAIMS FULL LEGAL AUTHORITY

Declares System Enables Government Creditors to Collect Without Paying Exchange

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Denial of any danger to the financial situation of the country in treasury circular No. 5, which orders the deposit of receipts of internal revenue in national banks instead of into the federal treasury, was made to the senate today in a report by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, responding to a request in a resolution by Poindexter.

"The daily income and outgo from each of these banks, due to deposits and disbursements, practically offset each other," he reported. "It is hardly necessary to take seriously the fear that the deposits in New York banks will increase by hundreds of millions. Before you can deposit hundreds of millions, you must have the money."

Secretary MacVeagh declared positively that he found full legal authority for the change in the law of March 4, 1907, and that he authorized the plan putting it into effect as soon as he discovered the statute, which was about September 1 of last year.

Far from being injurious to the country he said that the new system would enable pensioners and other creditors of the government to avoid paying exchange on their warrants and that it would place the government on the same plane of high efficiency in meeting its obligations as are the best conducted private business.

WILL INVESTIGATE COST OF LIVING

Labor Unions Will Seek Basis for Adjustment of New Wage Scales

TWENTY CONTRACTS TO EXPIRE

Rae and Hartwell to Tabulate Prices on Rent, Food, Clothing and Taxes

A thorough investigation of the cost of living in La Crosse, the findings of which will be used in the determination of labor unions' demands in drawing up new contracts this spring, was begun today by John Rae, local organizer of the La Crosse Trades and Labor Council, and Fred Hartwell, attorney for the labor unions of the city. The investigation will be broad in its scope, covering every necessity purchased by the laboring man in the support of himself and family. It will include a tabulation of the cost of rent, fuel, food supplies, clothing and other incidentals such as the value of home properties, taxes and insurance rates.

There are thirty-three labor unions organized in this city and the contracts of more than twenty of these expire this spring or summer. It is the belief of men in close touch with the situation that every union will ask for an increase in wages when the new contracts are drawn up.

Interviewed today Mr. Hartwell said "The investigation will be conducted principally to find the difference in prices this year and last so as to furnish a basis for the adjustment of wage scales. It is the claim of union officials that prices have increased to such an extent that higher wages are necessary. The investigation will discover what increase, if any, has been added to the cost of living in the last year.

"I do not anticipate any trouble over the adjustment of wages in spite of the fact that more than twenty contracts expire this year."

STUMPS FOR PHILIPPINES

NINE STATES REBEL AGAINST NEW RULE

Huerta Sets Up What Is Practically a Military Dictatorship in Mexico

MORE BLOODSHED IS EXPECTED

New Government Must Exterminate Rebels or Be Overthrown by Them

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Orders for the mobilization of the Fifth brigade of troops at Galveston, Texas, for possible embarkation on troopships were issued by the war department this afternoon as the result of a midnight conference last night by President Taft and Secretary of War Stimson.

MEXICO CITY, via Galveston, Tex., Feb. 22.—Troops bivouacked in the streets and the national palace as full of guards as a military fortress, today gave the capital the appearance of an armed camp and even he who ran could read that the iron hand, recalling the Porfirio Diaz regime, again is seeking a grip on Mexico.

Will Rule or Fall. No one could doubt that under the guise of a presidency has come a military dictatorship that will rule with fire and sword until peace is compelled or the new power overthrown. Warned by notices of rebellion in nine states, President Huerta is keeping the entire federal army under arms in the capital, ready for any emergency.

The nine known disaffected states today were Coahuila, San Luis Potosi, Sonora, Vera Cruz, Sinaloa, Puebla, Chihuahua, Zacatecas and Monterey. The governors of several of them have given formal notice that they would not accept the government set up by Felix Diaz.

The Madero revolution was popular throughout Mexico, because the people then almost universally were tired of the Diaz brand of mailed fist, but this revolution finds a divided people. There are those who are still loyal to Madero despite the ruin that seized the country under his administration. What proportion of the Mexican people are arrayed against the Huerta-Diaz regime, it is impossible to say at this time.

City Uneasy.

A pronounced feeling of uneasiness hung over Mexico City today. The people were confident that more bloodshed is bound to occur before tranquility is restored. On the unguessed strength of the new rebels depended whether civil war shall torture the country indefinitely or whether all will be quiet after a brief campaign of relentless extermination.

With a bill of exchange on a Paris bank for six million pesos ($3,000,000) in his pocket, Juan Sanchez Azcona, private secretary to Madero, was nabbed by federal soldiers as he was about to leave for Vera Cruz. It was reported that Azcona was executed by a firing squad under the convenient "fugitive law," but this was officially denied today.

Fight Just Begun.

(By a Staff Correspondent.) CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, Feb. 22.—How far from peace the republic of Mexico is today was learned by a day's visit in Chihuahua City and a dozen interviews with the men whose leadership is embodied in the discontent responsible for the frequent uprisings in northern Mexico. Epitomizing these various expressions in a sentence, the fight has just begun.

Idealist dreamers, ambitious self-seekers and mere adventurers testify to the impossibility of fulfillment of the promise made to President Taft by General Huerta that he would establish peace in Mexico. To these men the present provisional government represents only an armistice, and, more than that, a temporary restoration of the Porfirio Diaz regime.

Blame Wall Street

Direct accusations that the power of Wall street precipitated the present revolution and stands in the way of permanent peace were made by men here in every social strata. Madero's administration, they say, was Wall street government. It is because of the exploitation of their country by Americans that the hatred of the "gringos" is so widespread. And it is because they think that intervention will be for the benefit of these financiers that Mexicans of every class will resist to the death such action on the part of the United States.

Plan Troop Movements

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 22.—Six hundred officers and soldiers will entrain at Fort Crook Monday morning and proceed to Galveston, Texas, following out the order of the war department, issued today. General Frederick A. Smith, commander of the Fifth brigade, already has preparations under way to get his division of the army to Galveston short order. Troops will leave Snelling, in St. Paul, for Galveston, Kas., and Fort Union, N. M., and Fort Bliss, Ariz., today. There are approximately 1,000 officers and men in the Fifth brigade.

GROCERY CONCERNS MERGE INTERESTS

Seielstad and Hogan Company Buys Into Bryant-Sisson Firm; J. W. Bryant Sells Out

J. W. Bryant of the Bryant Sisson firm of wholesale grocers, has disposed of his interest in the concern to Frank W. Sisson, E. E. Seielstad, John S. Hougren and L. B. The firm will keep the name of Bryant-Sisson for the present, and will continue in business at the location of the Bryant-Sisson company. The former Seielstad & Hougren location is next to the Bryant-Sisson company, and the stock of the former firm will be gradually closed out. Food For the Elephant.

Since the elephant's digestive functions are very rapid it requires a large amount of fodder daily, about 600 pounds in most cases. In its wild state the elephant feeds heartily, but wastefully. It is careful in selecting the few forest trees that it likes for their bark or foliage, but it will tear down branches and leave half of them untouched. It will strip off the bark from other trees and throw away a large portion. As it is a nocturnal animal, it selects its trees by the senses of touch and smell.—Exchange

Women Orators.

We can no longer think with Pericles that good report for a woman means a minimum of any kind of report about her, whether for good or evil, nor with Dr. Johnson that when she speaks in public she is "like a pig standing on its hind legs. It is not that she does it well, but you are surprised that she can do it at all." We are as proud of our famous women as we are of our famous men, and some of the very best speakers in the world today are women.—University Magazine.

DEFENSE'S SIDE OF STORY IS UNTOLD

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 22.—Late yesterday Judge Turner issued an order to the five bishops who are defendants in the Kuryer Polski suit to show cause why a temporary injunction restraining them from the alleged acts complained of should not be issued.

Archbishop Messmer declined to discuss the suit further than to say that he was ready to interpose his defense whenever the court required. That the action taken was decided upon after grave deliberation, and was agreed upon as essential to the welfare of the people for whom the archbishop is spiritually responsible, is the confident assertion of friends of the defendants. That only the plaintiffs' claims have been heard, while the defense's side of the story is untold, is a fact.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — When Polly Wrote Her First Letter

THE day Jack wrote his first letter to his grandmother he was a very proud boy indeed. It wasn't that grandma lived so far away. Evelyn said Jack wanted to let her know how well he could write.

"Never mind," daddy laughed; "grandma will be very glad to get the letter. Just as glad as Polly's grandma was to get one from Polly. But that's a story."

"Polly had learned to write very carefully. 'When you can write very neatly you may have the pen and ink and write a nice letter to any one you like,' her mother told her."

"So Polly did her very best at school, and, looking at one of her exercises one day, her mother said, 'This afternoon when you come home from school you may go in to my desk and write a letter on my nice new note paper.'"

"May I write a truly letter, mother?" Polly asked.

"Of course you may," was the answer. "And, oh, Polly, be very careful about the ink!"

"Of course Polly promised. When she came home from school she went to the desk."

"Polly took down the box holding the paper. Pulling out a sheet on which to write, she left the box on the desk beside her."

"Next she got out her mother's pen. The ink bottle was in the rack, and at first Polly was content to let it stay there."

"Not being used to writing with a pen, Polly did not get enough ink on the point to last very long."

"So she got up, lifted the bottle out of the rack and placed it on the desk close beside the paper."

"Then she sat down again and went on with her letter. She had got as far as to tell grandma what a good little girl she was trying to be when she stopped. She had forgotten whether letter was spelled with one or two t's."

"It's in the dictionary," Polly said. "I'll just look for it, like mamma does for the spelling she can't remember."

"So Polly got down the big book and rested it on the desk. She had a good deal of trouble finding the word, for it was the first time she had ever used a dictionary."

"Oh, well; I won't bother about the old spelling," she said impatiently, giving the book a shove. It knocked against the ink bottle, and over went the ink. Polly shrieked, for the ink spilled over her letter. It also spoiled the back of the book and trickled down on the carpet, while she tried to wipe it up with a corner of her apron."

"It will be quite a long time before Polly is allowed to write another letter."

UNION MEN SHOULD HEAR JOHN MITCHELL

On February 24th John Mitchell will deliver a lecture at the La Crosse normal school. We believe this talk will be of especial interest to laboring people. We cannot conceive of a member of our labor unions not aspiring to see and hear John Mitchell, formerly president of the Anthracite Coal Miners and the leading figure in the partially successful fight of those miners for living wages and decent conditions. More recently Mr. Mitchell has been sentenced to prison for contempt of court because he chose to stand boldly and unapologetically for the right of free speech.

Members of the unions need not hesitate to go to the auditorium of the normal school to hear this lecture. People unfamiliar with this institution may have an erroneous idea that it is a silk stocking school. It is not, it is essentially a democratic place the management of which is in the hands of broadminded and democratic men. It is indeed an appropriate place for the speech of John Mitchell, and for his reception of an audience in which our workers should be conspicuous.

"BETWEEN THE DARK AND THE DAYLIGHT"

"The new feature of The Tribune 'The Bed Time Stories,' is a very pleasing one, a boon to mothers and teachers. Also the daily birthdays of noted people."

We were glad to read the foregoing paragraph in a letter from Miss Jessie Lewis of Waukon, because Miss Lewis is a teacher in the public schools and therefore hers is a more general endorsement than are the letters from individual fathers and mothers who have commended these features.

A canvass of the married employes of The Tribune shows that "Daddy's Bed Time Story" is an established institution in their homes within the happy period that Longfellow describes in the beautiful verses:

"Between the dark and the daylight,
When the night is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupation
That is known as the children's hour."

If you haven't tried reading "Daddy's Bed Time Story" to the children "between the dark and daylight," read it to them this evening "when the night is beginning to lower." This may be the beginning in many homes of "the children's hour."

SNUBBED BY THE
"BEST PEOPLE"

The citizens of Salem, Mass., are not in accord on the question of erecting a monument to Nathaniel Hawthorne, the man who put it on the map for all time. Salem snubbed Hawthorne unmercifully during his life, and he retorted by painting it in his books just as he saw it—petty, spiteful and gloomy. Descendants of some of the worthies held up to scorn by the gifted novelist are among those objecting to any tribute to the memory of him who stands with Poe and Whitman in the one group in American letters that has secured universal European recognition.

Salem scorned Hawthorne. He had no special connections or social tastes. He dressed shabbily and lived quietly. Therefore, according to the Salem point of view, he was a nobody. Unfortunately, this is the point of view that would be taken in many small American cities. Social standing and the money to maintain it seem far more necessary than intellectual gifts for recognition by what are mislabeled "the best people."

The only difference between the small city and the big city in this regard is that in the small city one is always running up against and being irritated by snobbishness, while in the large city obscurity is softened by the realization that there are millions just as obscure and that even wealth which would be intolerably patronizing and officious in a small town must take a back seat with honorable poverty. Nobody counts for much in a city like New York. That is why so many find its very immensity friendly and comfortable. Millionaires lose half their offensiveness when they are merged with hundreds of other millionaires.

The cliques and petty social monopolies of American small towns have much to answer for in the way of embittering sensitive men and women. Strangers, cultivated, educated and of equal or superior breeding to the local magnates, live for years in them and remain aliens and outlaws. To those who happen to come from larger cities, where more democratic standards prevail, it is amusing in its pettiness, yet cruel and unkind in its ultimate effects. It is the story of "The Conquest of Canaan."

The Hawthornes are scarce in this country, but the Salems—proud, exclusive two-by-four cities with a social trust unregulated by any Sherman law—are plentiful.

HE'D NEVER CHANGE
THE CONSTITUTION

Inspired by an inquiry of the Wall Street Journal, "Do we need another Lincoln?" the Milwaukee Sentinel observes that "Another Lincoln would surely, as of old, set his face like flint against the current passion for changing the national constitution so that its fathers would not know it." This is interesting information, and valuable in that it will allay some very persistent gossip to the effect that Mr. Lincoln led a valiant fight in which thousands of lives were lost in defense of a proposal to so "tinker with the constitution" that there might no longer be involuntary servitude in the United States.

TWO SIDES TO THE
IMMIGRATION VETO

There are undoubtedly two sides to the story of the immigration bill recently vetoed by President Taft. It would be foolish to deny that many undesirable people are coming to this country—criminals, and men and women of a low order of intelligence whose progeny must feel the influence of civilization through a protracted period before they can become an asset to this nation.

On the other hand, it is not certain that immigrants who cannot read and write in the language of any nation are identical with the brutal and criminal classes. Some of the most dangerous criminals and anarchists are people of education, while in some foreign countries conditions are such that the poorer classes find it difficult if indeed not impossible to acquire even the rudiments of learning.

That there is a semblance of equity in President Taft's declaration that the educational restriction of the immigration bill is undemocratic and opposed to this fundamental purposes and the noblest traditions of the American commonwealth, will be maintained by many progressive citizens.

WILL IT BE AESTHETIC OR INTENSIVE FARMING

It is interesting to note that young Vincent Astor, heir to the greatest Astor fortune, has been selected by Governor Sulzer of New York to head that state's delegation to the general assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture. The reason for this selection is still more interesting.

It is said that Young Astor asked the governor to advise him how to be of use to humanity; and that the boy selected agricultural research and experimentation from the numerous callings suggested.

Many people will not see a boon to the folk of the soil in multimillionaire Vincent Astor attending a meeting of experts in Rome, nor will they look forward to great profit from the young man's experiments at the aristocratic Rhinecliff farm of his father's estate. We confess that, at first thought, we might have suggested that Vincent would better turn florist and raise asters. But applied science has already multiplied the productivity of the land, and intensive farming is in its infancy. Young Mr. Astor may really prove to be a benefactor.

Reno lawyers are said to be learning palmistry for the old graft will soon be spoiled if the proposed change in the Nevada divorce laws is put through.

President Taft is said to be working hard on two messages. Keeping out personalities probably makes it doubly hard.

An Ambiguous Invitation

Two Holton boys, each aged 7, who live in the same block, do not enjoy enjoying entire peace and harmony. When they meet there is generally more or less trouble. Sometimes Jimmie trims Willie and sometimes Willie trims Jimmie. On the whole, however, Jimmie rather holds the record for successful battles. Jimmie's mother and Willie's mother are good friends and both regret the tendency of the boys to scrap, but so far their peace efforts haven't been very successful.

Not long ago Jimmie's mother gave him a birthday party and told him that she wanted him to be sure and invite Willie and to treat him well as his guest. Jimmie promised. The evening before the party she asked Jimmie if he had invited Willie to the party.

"You bet I invited him," said Jimmie. "I dared him to come."—Exchange.

Good on Measuring Time

At a trial in Macon recently a negro was on the witness stand. He testified that a man who had been knocked down lay on the ground five minutes, and the opposing lawyer challenged the statement. To test the accuracy of the witness he took out his own watch and asked the negro to tell him when five minutes was up. The negro told him correctly. As he was leaving the court room the lawyer caught up with him. "Plum," he said, "I'll forgive you if you'll tell me how you did it."

"Yes, boss," said the negro. "Ah just figured it out."

"Figured it out?"

"Yes, sah, by de clock on de wall beehine you."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Symptoms Mean What?
Physician Advises Men.

(From Health Record.)

A general failure of the vital organs, such as the stomach, liver, kidneys, heart, etc., to perform to the full extent their normal duties is responsible for many symptoms, often classed as "diseases" by the unlearned. However, such symptoms are not to be regarded lightly, for they are the forerunners of disease and premature decline. These symptoms are in the nature of warnings of the approach of low vitality, despondency, brain fog, and all the more or less dreaded ailments to which mankind is heir.

The faithful use of the prescription given below will so establish the normal natural functions of the various organs of the body as to cause to disappear all of the following symptoms: Despondency, fatigue, dull, sunken eyes, cold extremities, pains in small of back, pains in back of head, spots before the eyes, weakness in spine, twitching and trembling, impaired memory, loss of appetite, wasting to thinness (or overfat), shrunken, flabby flesh, premature wrinkles, dull headaches, constipation, kidney irregularities, irritability and a general break-down of ambitious spirit and manliness.

First get compound fluid balm-wort in a one-ounce package, and three ounces syrup sarsaparilla compound; take home, mix and let stand two hours; then get one-ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom). Mix all in a six or eight ounce bottle, shake well and take one teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring, followed by a drink of water.

By mixing it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment, even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full bounding health and all the happiness accompanying it, the above home treatment is given.

"I can't raise the money; what will you gain by ruining me?" demanded Langham. He wished to impress this on Gilmore, and then he would propose as a compromise the few hundreds it would be possible to borrow from North.

"To get square with you, Marsh, will be worth something, and frankly, I ain't sure that I ever expected to see any of that money, but as long as you stood my friend I was disposed to be easy on you."

"I am still your friend."

"Just about so-so, but you won't keep Moxlow."

"I can't!"

"Then I can't see where your friendship comes in." Gilmore quitted his chair.

"Wait, Andy!" said Langham hastily.

"No use of any more talk, Marsh. I want my money! Go dig it up."

"Suppose, by straining every nerve, I can raise five hundred dollars by the end of the month—"

"Oh, pay your grocer with that!"

Langham choked down his rage. "You haven't always been so contemptuous of such sums."

"I'm feeling proud to-day, Marsh. I'm going to treat myself to a few airs, and you can pat yourself on the back when you've dug up the money by the end of the month! You'll have done something to feel proud of, too."

"Suppose we say a thousand," urged Langham.

"Good old Marsh! If you keep on raising yourself like this you'll soon get to a figure where we can talk business!" Gilmore laughed.

"Perhaps I can raise a thousand dollars. I don't know why I should think I can, but I'm willing to try; I'm willing to say I'll try."

Gilmore shook his head.

"I've told you what you got to do, Marsh, and I mean every damn word I say—understand that? I'm going to have my money or I'm going to have the fun of smashing you."

"Listen to me, Andy!" began Langham desperately.

"Why take me into your confidence?" asked the gambler coldly.

"What will you gain by ruining me?" repeated Langham fiercely.

The gambler only grinned.

"I am always willing to spend money on my pleasures; and besides when those notes turn up, your father or some one else will have to come across."

Langham was silent. He was staring out across the empty snow-strewn square at the lights in Archibald McBride's windows.

"Remember," said Gilmore, moving toward the door, "I'll talk to you when you got two thousand dollars."

"Damn you, where do you think I'll get it?" cried Langham.

"I'm not good at guessing," laughed Gilmore.

He turned without another word or look and left the room. His footsteps echoed loudly in the hall and on the stairs, and then there was silence in the building. Langham was again looking out across the square at the lights in Archibald McBride's windows.

CHAPTER FOUR.

Adventure in Earnest.

Mr. Shrimplin had made his way through a number of back streets without adventure of any sort, and as the night and the storm closed swiftly in about him, the shapes of himself, his cart and of wild Bill disappeared, and there remained to mark his progress only the hissing sputtering flame, that flared spectrally six feet in the air as the little lamp-lighter drove in and out of shabby unfrequented streets and alleys.

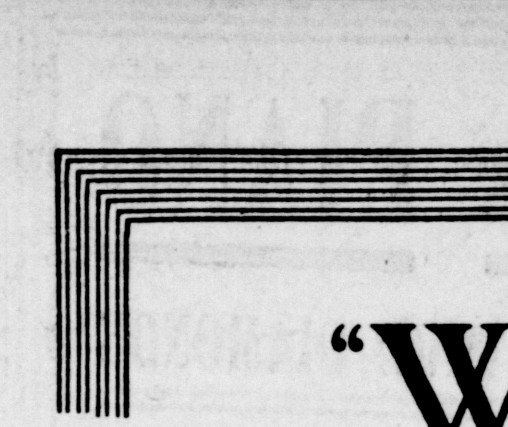

It had grown steadily colder with the approach of night, and the wind had risen. The streets seemed deserted, and Mr. Shrimplin being as he was of a somewhat fanciful turn of mind, could almost imagine himself and Bill the only living things astray in all the town.

He reached Water Street, the western boundary of that part of Mount Hope known as the flats. He jogged past Maxy Schaffer's Railroad Hotel at the corner of Front street, which flung the wicked radiance of its bar-room windows along the shining railroad track where it crossed the creek on the new iron bridge; and keeping on down Water Street with its smoky tenements, entered an outlying district where the lamps were far apart and where red and blue and green switch lights blinked at him out of the storm.

It was nearly six o'clock when he at last wheeled into the Square; there only three gasolene burners—survivors of the old regime—held their own against the fast encroaching gas-lamp.

He lighted the one in Division Street and was ready to turn and traverse the north side of the Square to the second lamp which stood a block away at the corner of High Street. He was drawing Bill's head about—Bill being smitten with a sudden desire to go directly home leaving the night's work unfinished—when the muffled figure of a man appeared in the street in front of him. The inch or more of snow that now covered the pavement had deadened the sound of his steps, while the eddying flakes had made possible his near approach unseen. As he came rapidly into the glare of Mr. Shrimplin's hissing torch that hero was exceeding well pleased to recognize a friendly face.

"How are you, Mr. North?" he

The Nursery Floor Liner
Over the shallows of Nursery Floor
A strange craft saileth away once more,
Away from the port of Mother's Knee,
Bound for a harbor in Slumber Sea.
Rocking lightly and rocking low,
Gliding gently away they go;
"Trundle Bed" is the vessel fair,
Which holds the Knight of the Golden Hair.

The skipper is rosy and young and sweet,
And he steers from the jetty on Slumber Street;
Now he veers to the east or west,
Just as his fancy may suit him best.
Mother's kiss was his farewell prize
Ere he left the harbor of Sleepy Eyes.
As over the carpet and through the door,
He breasted the billows of Nursery Floor.

Tacking this way and tacking so,
He holds his course as the sun dips low;
Close by the reefs of the Sideboard Isle
The fair young skipper will sail awhile;
Then away, where the hall lamp's glare
Guides his craft past the rocking chair,
And on and on through the narrow hall,
Over the carpet and rugs and all.

See how neatly he steers away
As the good ship glides from the Port of Day,
With taut sails gleaming all snowy-white,
As it dips and swings through the starry night!

Over the shallows of Nursery Floor,
And on and on past the kitchen door,
Where, just as the shadows commence to creep,
He reaches the harbor of Sound Asleep.

The clerk made note of the request, but the purchaser was surprised to find the goods left at the hotel without demand for payment. ARREST MAN WHO THREATENED WILSON

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—It is believed here today that the reason for the sudden doubling of the secret guard at the home of President-elect Wilson in Princeton, a week ago, was the receipt of threats from a huge New Jersey trapper, Seeley Davenport, who was jailed in Hoboken last night by federal officers after a fierce struggle to capture him in his cabin near Wharton, Morris county, N. J.

Davenport was one of three men arrested last December charged with sending threatening letters to Governor Wilson. He was not indicted at that time, but letters he is said to have written since, caused his arrest yesterday.

CHRIST PETERSON BURIED TODAY

Faithful Worker in Charles Street Lutheran Church Laid at Rest

The funeral services of Christ Peterson, 1341 Caledonia street, were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 at the Charles Street Lutheran church. Rev. E. O. Vik officiated. Interment was made in Oak Grove cemetery.

The pall bearers were Louis Holm, Nels Davidson, Anton Johnson, C. Peterson, Nels Paulson and P. Johnson. The flower carriers were James Thomson, Thomas Ives, Lewis Dahl, C. Marking and C. Clano Swennes.

Mr. Peterson came to this country in 1869, being then 19 years of age, and has been a citizen of this city since then. He worked as a foreman blacksmith for P. S. Davidson Lumber company, for about twenty-five years, and was foreman for the Wheel and Seeder Works where he remained until the firm went out of business. He later purchased a berry farm in West La Crosse.

About a year ago Mr. Peterson was injured on his head, which gradually grew worse, until it finally ended in his death. Mr. Peterson was an active church and Sunday school worker, and always took part not only spiritually, but financially. He was a member of the Charles street Lutheran church and his loss is felt by all the members.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. McFarland, Mason City, Ia.; two sisters, Mrs. O'Kerson, Pine City, Minn., and three brothers, Olane, of Christiansburg, Norway and Mathew and Ole of La Crosse.

"CASCARETS" BEST BOWEL CLEANSER

No Biliousness, Headache, Sour Stomach, Coated Tongue or Constipation

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

LONDON STAGE FOR LITTLE PRIMA DONNA

Ina Claire.

Theatrical press agents have told us so many stories about actresses "leaping into fame over night" that the phrase is growing a bit moth eaten. Yet that is exactly the way in which the rise of Ina Claire, the dainty little 18 year old prima donna now playing "The Quaker Girl" should be described. Up to three years ago Miss Claire was practically unknown in the theatrical world and up till a year ago her fame was limited to a place in the type near the bottom of the vaudeville bills of mediocre houses of variety.

Next year she will be leading woman of George Edwardes' Gayety theater in London.

In the Eye of the Beholder. Jimmie was playing with the boy next door. Nurse went to get him, but he refused to come. So he was carried, screaming, away. The family and neighbors commented:

Sister—He's a contrary little rogue.

Father—He's a stubborn little rascal.

Neighbors—He's a little savage.

Mother—How strong willed Jimmie is!—Woman's Home Companion.

Hard on Lawyers.

The dean of the law department was very busy and rather cross. The telephone rang.

"Well, what is it?" he snapped.

"Is that the city gas works?" said a woman's soft voice.

"No, madam," roared the dean, "this is the university law department."

"Ah," she answered in the sweetest of tones, "I didn't miss it so far, after all, did I?"

And the weary dean chuckled all afternoon.—Lippincott's.

DOWAGER EMPRESS OF CHINA IS DEAD

Rumors of Suicide Rife Over Death of Mother of Deposed Child

PEKIN, Feb. 22.—The empress dowager of China, mother of the deposed child emperor, died early today, almost alone in that portion of the forbidden city left to the family of the former Manchu ruler. It was officially stated that the empress died from natural causes and rigorously denied that she took her own life. Those who know conditions prevailing among the deposed royal family were certain that the empress died of a grief and a broken heart. Appendicitis was given as the cause of death.

SAYS FAIR CHANGE IS NOT POLITICAL

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 22.—(Special.)—Assemblyman John Chinnock, chairman of the assembly committee on agriculture, today branded as a canard the stories published in Milwaukee morning papers that the action of the assembly committee in attempting to move the fair from Milwaukee was for political purposes. Chinnock claims that there is a widespread movement among the farmers in the state to move the fair to a place where the farmers can all attend. He declares that the fair is supported by the state primarily in the interests of the farmers, and that the action of the committee is sustained by the increasing sentiment among the farmers to move the fair.

HIKING "ARMY" JUBILANT

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Feb. 22.—Refreshed by their rest at Havre de Grace, the suffrage hikers moved on toward Belair, Md., today. Even Colonel Ida Craft, who became mired in the mud yesterday and did not arrive for hours, was jubilant.

Good Evidence. "Do you really think that your sister is making such a match with the baron?"

"Judging by the great number of anonymous letters addressed to her, I should say so!"—Filegande Blatter.

Girl Wives of India.

Of girls in India who have not completed their fifth year more than 300,000 are wives and nearly 18,000 are widows, while approximately 9,500,000 girls fifteen years of age and under have entered the married state.

White Africans.

The Berbers, who, although African, are as white as Europeans, are the oldest white race on record, says an explorer. They are supposed to have come from the south of Europe in ancient days. The Dundee Advertiser says, and although their language and customs are entirely different from ours and their religion Mohammedan, they are probably closely akin by descent. Blue eyes and fair hair are not at all uncommon among the Berbers, and many of them have rosy cheeks and features so like Englishmen that they were dressed in British fashion they would easily pass as natives of the British isles.

Retaliation.

A "Weary Willie" of the genus bobo lay down to enjoy a noontide siesta under an apple tree beside the road. The season was midsummer, the sun was piping hot, and the bobo's nap disposed him to good humor with all the world. So it was that on opening his eyes he lay for some time observing the flies and the mosquitoes swarming on his greasy clothes until up buzzed a busy mosquito, lit on Mr. Tramp's breast and stung him.

Aroused to action by this impertinence, the tramp indignantly brushed off the insects, exclaiming:

"Just for that, now, every one of you get right off!"—Everybody's.

It is almost impossible for a woman to pass a barbershop without looking in.

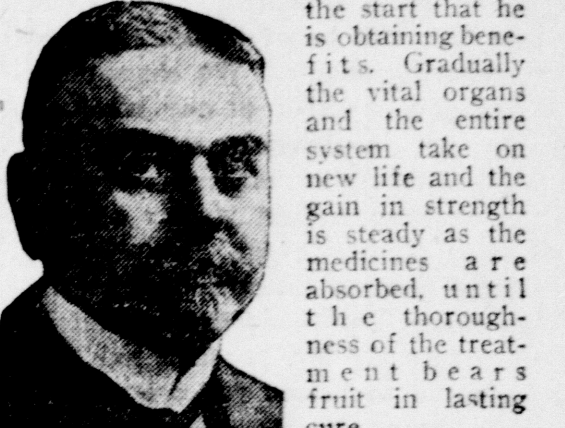

ENLARGED VEINS

The dilatation or stretching of the walls of the veins in certain localities results in such great expansion or enlargement that in places the veins stand out under the skin, forming knots which vary in size, and cause considerable pain, particularly where the veins affected are the ones surrounding vital parts. There is no other disease of the veins having such a constant and damaging effect on the vitality, such disturbing influence on the nervous system, such devastating tendencies.

Every man who has enlarged veins knows that he is afflicted, but sometimes he does not realize that the disease will sap up his vitality and bring on nervous decline. Every sufferer knows in his own heart whether his trouble has developed through overindulgence, or is the result of overwork, injury or other cause; but not many take into consideration that the disease exerts a harmful effect on the mind, because the mental health is necessarily founded on physical health.

Many cases pronounced incurable except by operation will yield to medical treatment. Why neglect that dragging, uneasy sensation and peculiar knotty feeling resembling worms, until your mental and physical condition is such that you are unfit for your work or social duties?

Sufferers from this trouble are offered a means of escape. Why not embrace the opportunity while your case is tractable? Dr. Turbin's powerful treatment brings relief, and the patient feels and knows from the start that he is obtaining benefits. Gradually the vital organs and the entire system take on new life and the gain in strength is steady as the medicines are absorbed, until the thoroughness of the treatment bears fruit in lasting cure.

Fear of U. S. Will Prevent Legal Execution, but Conspiracy Against His Life Alleged

EL PASO, Texas, Feb. 22.—While fear of American anger may prevent the legal execution of former President Francisco I. Madero, death by assassination is believed to await him.

Despatches from Mexico City say a conspiracy exists there, and that it is well known to new government officials, for the killing of Madero before he has an opportunity to leave Mexico. Before this conspiracy can be carried out it is the formality of a trial will be gone through and the former president will be acquitted of the crimes charged against him. That will be to satisfy President Taft. Then, it is said, the conspirators will take Madero's life in such a way that the crime may be charged to popular anger or the Huerta government may declare it was unable to prevent the tragedy.

CHICAGO CENTER OF HEAVY STORM

All Direct Wire Communication Between Here and Chicago Cut Off Last Night

TRAINS ARE SLIGHTLY DELAYED

But One Snow Fall Heavier in Last Twenty-one Years; Temperature Twenty Above

The snow storm which swept over La Crosse yesterday afternoon, last night and today is part of a general storm covering the greater part of Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and southern Minnesota and has cut La Crosse off from all direct wire communication with Chicago. The snow fall of eleven inches, with but one exception, is the heaviest in twenty-one years.

A heavy sleet storm which broke over the eastern part of Wisconsin and followed the lake yesterday morning, destroyed all wire connection between Chicago and Milwaukee and later caused thousands of dollars worth of damage in Illinois, miles of wire service being destroyed west of Chicago. The greatest damage was done within a radius of 150 miles of that city, and but little destruction of property has been reported in this vicinity.

Railroad traffic has been but slightly impaired near La Crosse. Northwestern and Milwaukee railroad trains being reported but from one to two hours late. The northbound and southbound trains on the Burlington were reported to be five hours behind schedule time and no further delays are anticipated.

Wires Down
The Milwaukee railroad wires between Chicago and Milwaukee are down and the Burlington wire connection between Chicago and Savanna is completely cut off. At 11 o'clock last night the press wires between Chicago and Minneapolis went down and a round about circuit had to be used. Chicago dispatches are being received here today by way of St. Louis and Minneapolis.

The commercial wires have also suffered, the North American wires between La Crosse and Chicago being destroyed yesterday and the Western Union wires between Aurora, Ill., and Chicago going down at 2:15 this morning. Both companies have been receiving all incoming messages from the Minneapolis office, the St. Louis circuit being used.

They expect to establish direct communication between here and Chicago tonight.

Officials of the Bell and LaCrosse Telephone companies today declared that they are having no trouble in this vicinity. All overhead long distance wires north and west of Chicago and within a radius of thirty miles of that city were put out of service yesterday by the heavy sleet and the only telephone connection between Milwaukee and Chicago today is the underground wire of the Bell Telephone company.

Snow is Record Breaker
E. C. Thompson, head of the local United States Weather bureau today said that eleven inches of snow had fallen up to noon today. In December, 1911 a ten inch fall was recorded and in December of 1904 a fall of 10.5 was recorded. The only snow fall in the last twenty-one years which was heavier than the present fall was one that occurred in March 1909, of 12.2. No records were kept previous to 1892.

Despite the heavy snow the temperature remained well above the zero mark and the thermometer registered 20 degrees above at noon today. No decrease in temperature is predicted for the next twenty-four hours.

SEND BRICK HOUSE BY PARCELS POST

Mormon Coulee Company Contributes to Exposition Building by Mail

Mr. Norman L. Meir, manager of the Mormon Coulee Brick company, sent by parcel post this morning a brick of local manufacture to be used in building a brick house at the Coliseum, Chicago, during the Clay Products exposition which is to be held February 26 to March 8. This brick will be one of 25,000 sent by parcel post from every brick plant in the United States to be used in the construction of this house, which will be given away and re-erected after the exposition.

The idea was originated to test the merits of the parcel post system and it is certainly a novel one. A record will be kept of each brick from the time the brick is mailed until it is delivered in Chicago. In order to see how speedily Uncle Sam can deliver a brick house by mail. It is probable that Uncle Sam's mail carriers in Chicago will be overly enthusiastic for this method of delivery of a brick house. Other mail carriers throughout the country will watch the experiment with interest and fear and trembling. While the brick fireproof home is becoming more and more popular because of its permanency, economy and superiority, it is not probable that they will be delivered by mail to any alarming extent.

At any rate Mormon Coulee Brick company will have a brick in the first brick house ever sent by mail.

The show which opens tomorrow is said to be one of the most pleasing musically that the Majestic has billed. In addition there will be an added attraction, the Kelo brothers, a team of Australian jugglers and hoop-rollers.

FEAR RACE WAR IN TENNESSEE

Whites and Negroes Clash When Black Shoots Officer Attempting to Arrest Him

COLLIERSVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 22.—Governor Hooper was asked today to send state troops to this city because of fear that a bloody race war will result from a riot last night in which two negroes were killed and four white officers were wounded, one perhaps fatally.

Six negroes who took part in the shooting fled and bloodhounds were today placed on the trail. A lynching is threatened. Armed whites are parading the streets today warning all negroes to leave the town.

The trouble started when Deputies Neal D. Borum and Frank Craig attempted to arrest Henry Wilkins, colored. Wilkins fired upon the officers, perhaps fatally wounding Borum.

BROWN EXPLAINS ABSENCE OF FLAG

Rope Breaks as He Hoists Banner at City Hall; Patriots Complain

Washington's birthday and no flag waving over the city hall! Despite the flurry of snow, first one passerby and then another, and another noticed the absence of the star spangled banner from the flag staff surmounting the home of the city officials.

Surprise was soon replaced by decided disapproval and this sentiment rapidly changed to one of anger in the breasts of the many patriotic citizens who passed within vision range of the city hall. Soon the telephone was brought into use and complaint after complaint was filed with Janitor L. L. Brown.

Almost driven to distraction by the persistent ringing of the bell, Brown finally got in touch with the newspaper offices and requested that they extricate him from his dilemma by giving the facts to the public.

Mr. Brown said he had brought the new sixty-five foot from its locker and at the break of day had attached it to the rope and started to pull it into place. As the banner reached the top, the rope broke and the banner came fluttering down. No available rope could be located and consequently the city hall will have to dispense with the usual custom. (Brown was still explaining at 2:30.)

NEW ENGINEER FOR THE GAS COMPANY

J. A. Patten Completes the Working Staff of New Management of the Light Concern

Mr. J. A. Patten, who was engineer and manager of the Winona Gas Light and Gas company until last September and who more recently has been engineer for the Utah Gas and Coke company of Salt Lake City, has been appointed engineer of the La Crosse Gas and Electric company.

Mr. Patten, who is well known in the gas and electric field, entered the business in 1889 at Saginaw, Mich. Since that time he has constructed and was manager of the plant at Manitowoc, Wisconsin, leaving that city to go to Holland, Mich., this being the first plant acquired by the Kelsey, Brewer & Company.

Mr. Patten arrived in La Crosse today and the company is now well equipped to take up the work successfully carried on by the old organization.

The working organization of the company is now complete. Mr. Thurston Owens, as vice president and general manager and Mr. J. A. Patten as engineer, take up the duties of Mr. D. G. McMillan and Mr. P. M. Gelatt. Mr. Joseph M. LaVaque continues as auditor and chief clerk. The rest of the organization will remain as at present.

ADAMS IS A SELF

MADE MAN—HIS RECORD OPEN ONE

Ten Years' Residence in La Crosse Makes Him Cognizant of All the City's Needs

W. F. Adams, the shoe man at 115-117 South Fourth street, candidate for mayor of La Crosse, is a self-made man who, starting in with limited opportunities and under adverse conditions, has established a firm place for himself in the business life of this community.

Mr. Adams was born in Kalamazoo, Mich., in 1880, and while still an infant removed with his parents to Chicago. Following the death of his father, Mr. Adams was compelled to leave school at the age of 13 years, and in 1893, while the world's fair was in progress, secured his first job as an employee of Streeter Brothers, shoe dealers.

W. F. ADAMS.

He worked in different stores on State street for twelve years, obtaining in each establishment a broader knowledge of the shoe business and equipping himself for the more responsible positions he was destined to hold.

Mr. Adams came to La Crosse in 1903 to take charge of the shoe department in the retail store of J. E. Willing, Jr. Later he became a traveling salesman for Russell & Willing, a wholesale shoe firm, remaining in this position until the partnership was dissolved, eight years ago. He then went on the road for the La Crosse Boot and Shoe company, covering the same territory as for the first named firm. Receiving an offer of a larger salary, Mr. Adams accepted a position as traveling salesman for the Watson-Plummer Shoe company, which he held until three years ago, when he resigned to go into business for himself.

During his ten years' residence in La Crosse Mr. Adams has at all times had unbounded faith in the industrial possibilities of the city. Ever active and alert in business, he embraced the opportunity to install a shoe department in Mr. Willing's store on South Fourth street when the latter re-opened his old stand, and success crowned his efforts from the start. He has built up a reputation for square dealing and business integrity which is yielding handsome returns, and his trade is constantly on the increase. Eight years ago Mr. Adams was married to Miss Anna Olson of La Crosse.

Mr. Adams at all times is a booster for his home city, and he believes that the municipality is on the verge of an era of prosperity.

Watches

The cost consideration in buying your watch should be an afterthought. The paramount consideration should be, "Am I getting the best?" The best watch means one of perfect parts. The materials must be choicest. The workmanship must be the finest that skilled hands and keen eyes and great brains can produce; the finish must be elegant, but beyond all this, it should pass through the hands of a dealer whose personal knowledge will be your safeguard in future days. That is the kind of a watch service we offer.

Hadley Says Washington's Least Remembered Attribute Is His Wealth

CONGRESS CELEBRATES THE DAY

"Father of His Country's" Farewell Address to Nation Is Read

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—Former Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri, speaker at the Washington birthday celebration of the Union League club today, advised America's richest men to follow the example set by "the father of our country," whom he termed "the first capitalist."

"About how many of America's 100 richest men can anything of importance be conceded, save the fact that they are rich?" asked the Missouri executive.

Washington's Riches Forgotten
The contrast between Washington, the richest man of his time, and the rich men of this period is a startling one. His wealth was the least important fact about him."

Governor Hadley said he felt no alarm over the demand for changes. "Our system of checks and balances has made our government less responsive than some of the monarchies of Europe," said he.

"The constitution has exceeded expectations in some respects. In others it has proved a disappointment. Instead of realizing the ideals of true democracy has it not at times become the entrenched citadel of interests warring on the people?"

Read Washington's Farewell

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Reading Washington's farewell address as 1st president was the mark of respect to his memory observed in both branches of the legislative chambers today. In addition, Chaplains Pierce and Couden in convening the sessions with prayer, drew lessons from the life and character of the founder of the republic.

CLUBWOMEN HONOR GEO. WASHINGTON

Celebrate Birthday of First President of United States at Y. W. C. A.

In spite of the severest snow storm of the season a large number of the club women with their husbands and invited guests assembled at the Y. W. C. A. Friday evening to celebrate the one hundred and eighty-first anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

The spacious parlors were made very attractive by the use of flags and bunting and further embellished by beautiful red carnations and potted plants.

The dining room table was made attractive by a beautiful embroidered cloth and flowers. Mrs. Dow and Mrs. Vincent presided at the coffee urns.

A delightful program was given during the evening. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. George Bradish, president of the club, who gave a brief address of welcome after which the state federation ode, "Wisconsin," was given by Mesdames Gran, Cilley and Schweizer.

Mrs. Cilley then gave two numbers, "I Love and the World is Mine," by Frank Lynes, and "Sleepy Song," by Carrie Jacobs Bond.

The club was fortunate in securing the services of Miss Gertrude Johnson of Madison, a noted dramatic reader, who delighted the audience for an hour by a number of selections, giving first a group by Eugene Field, "In New Orleans," "Ballad of Taylor Pup," and "Stove and Sunshine." "Mr. Bush's Kindergarten Christmas," by Carruth; "Transfiguration of Miss Philura," by Kingsley; "The Nice People," by Bormer; "Ballad of Sweet Pea," by Virginia Cloud, and closing with a selection in which she showed to best advantage her excellent dramatic ability, "Aunt Mollison on Bays," by James T. Trowbridge. A fitting close to a delightful program was a group of patriotic songs by Mrs. R. C. Whelpley.

The pleasant evening came to a close all too soon and much credit is due the untiring efforts of the social committee, Mrs. W. R. Finch, Mrs. F. A. Cotton, Mrs. H. S. Burroughs and Mrs. A. W. Langenbach.

BRING EDUCATION NEARER TO HOMES

Normal Regents Issue Bulletin on the Advantages of State Institutions

LA CROSSE SCHOOL DESCRIBED

Call It Fortunate in Its Location; Many Improvements Planned Here

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 22.—(Special.)—The advantages of the normal schools over the colleges are set forth from the standpoint of the board of normal regents in a bulletin on the college course at the eight normal schools in Wisconsin, issued today. The first advantage of offering two years of college work in the normals is, the report says, the bringing of college education nearer to the homes of the people of the state. Next is mentioned reduction of the cost of education through lesser travel expenses and lower cost of living at school.

"Living expenses in normal schools are relatively low," the report says. "The expenses incident to school life are low. The normal schools cultivate a democratic social atmosphere and do not countenance forms of social pleasure which are expensive and from which, on that account, many students would be barred. By reducing the cost of the first two years of a college course, the normal schools make it possible for many aspiring young people to gratify their ambition for a college preparation for life's work."

Other advantages are detailed. Summer sessions are maintained at each of the eight normal schools and also at Eau Claire and Oconto.

The description of the La Crosse normal school which appears in the bulletin together with a full page picture of the local institution, is given as follows:

State Normal School, La Crosse

"The school at La Crosse is the last one established by the board of regents of normal schools. It is fortunate in its location in a city of more than 30,000 inhabitants, with all the advantages that can come from a city of such size. The Mississippi river, and the bluffs overshadowing it, give it scenic and recreational charms unsurpassed in the state. Five railroads entering La Crosse make the normal school accessible to a large student population in an area of considerable size."

"The building and equipment are new, ample and sanitary. The faculty includes men and women of native ability, experience, and training in the leading schools of the country. The courses offered meet the needs of those preparing to teach in country schools, in graded and city schools, for principalships, and departmental high school positions. There are two year courses also for the special student and for the regular college or university student."

There are organizations within the school to engage the interest and utilize the talent of the student along athletic, literary, oratorical, social, musical and religious lines.

"The Racquet is a student publication of special merit. It serves as an exponent of the various organizations and departments of the school's life. Each student is encouraged to support a reasonable number of these organizations and thus to make such contributions to the school's activities as his tastes and capacities permit."

"Board and rooms may be secured at reasonable cost in good homes of the city near the normal school. For the convenience of those who wish it, the school serves noonday lunches, cafeteria plan; and also offers regular board, three meals per day, to all who can be accommodated."

"The school has secured work for large numbers of students to enable them to pay a part or all of their expenses while in the school. Persons desiring to work for a part or all of their expenses may make arrangements to do so by addressing the president of the school."

If a bill which the board of regents have decided to present to the legislature at this session is given favorable consideration an appropriation of $25,000 will be made for the building of a large dormitory on the La Crosse normal school grounds. The building is to be erected for the housing of girl students who come from out of town to attend the school. It will contain twenty-five rooms and will be one of the handsomest buildings of its kind in the northwest. The normal regents believe that the dormitory plan will result in a higher standard of scholarship among the girls and will be a material aid to the school officials in the supervision of the moral surroundings of the students.

The site has already been purchased and it is probable that if the appropriation is allowed work on the new building will begin this summer. Much will be done this summer in the improvement of the grounds at the normal school. The plan of landscape gardening evolved by C. E. Shaefer will be carried on this summer by the planting of trees and flowers and much will be done to give the fine structures their proper setting.

THON GETS 30 DAYS

Frank Thon was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail by Judge John Brindley yesterday morning following his plea of guilty to the charge of larceny. ED WALSH ONE OF THE MOST REMARKABLE PITCHERS IN NATIONAL GAME'S HISTORY

Ed Walsh.

Edward Walsh, the famous hurler of the Chicago White Sox, and the "iron man" of all modern pitchers, qualified from the jump; from the first ball pitched in his first game at Bridgeport, Conn., in July, 1902, his march to fame has been paved with sensational stunts and great achievements. As the "iron man" of all modern day hurlers he is in a class by himself. No pitcher in the last ten years approaches his record for number of games worked in. His general pitching average during the eight years he has been with Chicago has been .506.

GOOD HAND IS FATAL AT WHIST

The remainder of the squad is expected to arrive at the training camp by March 1st.

FRIENDSHIP.

Bad qualities in a friend are false lights. They lure to evil. Many of us are constituted so that it is easy for us to form friendships. Let us be careful of those thus brought under our influence and power. Let us keep them unsoiled. Let us feel that grave responsibilities lie in our friendships and that they also enshrine glorious opportunities.

WHIST MEET IN CHICAGO CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The executive board of the American Whist league announced today that the 1918 congress will be held at the Chicago Beach hotel during the week of July 7.

Tennyson's Queer Ways. It was with great difficulty that Professor Hubert Herkomer, the portrait painter, obtained Tennyson's consent for a sitting, but at last he was successful and called at the poet's house. After some little delay the door of the room where the artist was waiting slowly opened, and Tennyson entered with drooping head. He looked most dejected and murmured: "I hate your coming. I can't abide sitting." However, Mr. Herkomer was allowed to remain. Soon after he had retired to his room for the night there came a knock at the door. A head was thrust in and the voice of the poet remarked: "I believe you are honest. Good night."

True. Have you ever observed that the man who frequently asks himself whether life is really worth living usually subsists on a diet and shudders at the mere thought of getting his feet damp?—Chicago Record-Herald.

TWO BIG BATTLES SCHEDULED TODAY

Rivers and Brown Meet at Los Angeles and Wolgast Will Fight Tommy Murphy

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Feb. 22.—With Joe Rivers and Knockout Brown of New York carded in the Washington birthday fight feature here, fight fans are sure to witness a slashing battle.

The Spaniard is so well thought of by his friends and admirers that he has been installed a topheavy favorite. A large amount of money at 10 to 7 remains unplaced, with Brown's following demanding 10 to 6. It is possible that ringside betting will be 2 to 1.

With all due respect to the New Yorker's knockout record and newspaper victories over Wolgast, he has thrown little fear into the natives, although there are many who will string on the long shot in the event the betting goes to 2 to 1.

Brown has made little noise in the training camp. In fact, his showing has been so faulty as to create big odds. His peculiar attitude with right hand extended and right foot forward is, indeed, ungainly, but it also is very puzzling, and the awkwardness of this delivery has contributed greatly to his success.

Against former Champion Wolgast it can readily be seen why Brown proved formidable, and so he would against any rushing fighter, but for a clever, speedy boxer possessed of a fair amount of ring generalship he should be comparatively "soft picking."

After great difficulty in getting off his superfluous flesh, Ad Wolgast has suddenly rounded into form and Friday pronounced his condition fine for his 20 round battle with Harlem Tommy Murphy at Jimmy Coffroth's Daly City arena this afternoon.

As a result his admirers, who have been withholding their wagers, loosened their purse strings Friday and a flood of Wolgast money was offered, making the former lightweight champion a 10 to 8 favorite. Wolgast, in a statement on Friday, predicted a knockout, although he declares he is by no means holding the Harlemite cheaply.

Murphy seems to be in the best condition of his career and his many friends would not be surprised to see him "put something over" on the Michigan wildcat. Tommy has always been a careful and conscientious trainer. He said on Friday that he was ready to step into the ring at any time. Today's battle means much to him as he hopes a victory over Wolgast will pave the way for a battle with Willie Ritchie.

The scrap will begin at 3 p. m. and Jimmy Coffroth, the promoter, predicts a packed house. Jim Griffin will be the third man.

NORMAL QUINTET WINS EASY GAME

River Falls Basketball Team Loses to La Crosse Aggregation by Score of 68 to 22

Piling up a score faster than the raging blizzard outside manufactured snow drifts, the La Crosse normal basketball team last night completely snowed under the quintet from River Falls normal by the elephantine score of 68 to 22. From the first there was never the semblance of doubt as to the winner as the visitors were completely baffled by the team work of the locals. Sixteen baskets were made in the first seven minutes of play and interest was held only by the spectacular work of the local forwards, Rand and Dahl, who "stopped them in" every time they were within ten feet of the basket. Forrest out-jumped Robey at center and paved the way for the excellent team work shown during the contest. There were intervals, however, during which the River Falls boys would show a streak of fine passing but were seldom within shooting distance on account of the tightness of the guards, Griffin and Byers. The game was clean throughout and Referee Bradish called but six fouls during the entire game all being on Coach Carter's men. At the end of the first half, the score was 48 to 15. During the last half Swancutt and Glassbrenner were sent in at center and guard respectively. Nelson, left forward for the visitors, played an excellent game, making fourteen of the twenty-two for his team. Dahl made 13 baskets and Rand secured ten.

Gifts With a String. Wedding gifts in olden times were mere loans, to be returned when the couple were well established in their new home. But when the feudal lord increased in power he grew to expect presents for his newly wedded children from those dependent upon him. Later laws were passed compelling a present in value up to one-twentieth of the yearly rent of the tenant.

TWO ARE TIED IN BILLIARD TOURNNEY

Mitsopolis and Tuteur Will Play Deciding Game for Class Honors in Y Tournament

The class B honors of the Y. M. C. A. billiard tournament will be decided by a game to be played between George Mitsopolis and Irving Tuteur as the result of a decision handed down by C. H. Schweizer, Mr. Schweizer who was asked for a decision by the committee in charge declared today that although Tuteur had one more forfeited game in his list of victories than Mitsopolis it would not be fair to award the cup to Mitsopolis as they are technically tied and a deciding game will really tell to whom the honors belong.

He also decided that the game shall be played at the class handball court of Tuteur 55, Mitsopolis 70. In Class A, H. Mills is the winner, going through his schedule without a single defeat. E. F. Hughes won in Class C. The finals will probably open Monday night.

BULLETS STOP HIS TRIP INTO MEXICO

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 22.—Stopped by a fusillade of bullets which halted a train on which he was riding between San Antonio and Mexico City, William F. Groh, formerly a foreman in the Foot-Schulze shoe factory here, has returned to St. Paul, disgusted with his attempt to take a similar place in a factory in the Mexican capital.

Called the Bluff. William Coke, from whom billycock hats derived their name, played a strange trick on the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz when he visited Holkham in 1823. At dinner one evening the talk turned on accidents at the covert side, and the grand duke declared that if any one peppered him, even by accident, he would kill the offender on the spot. Next morning when out after partridges his serene highness felt a shower of shot stinging his legs. Turning round furiously, he saw William Coke with a gun aimed in his direction. "I've another muzzle ready," said William. "Will you shoot?" The invitation was not accepted.—London Chronicle.

WISCONSIN WINS BIG NINE TITLE

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 22.—Wisconsin was the virtual conference basketball champion today as the result of its victory over Illinois last night the eighth consecutive victory of the season. It is practically impossible for any other "Big Nine" team to catch the Badgers. The score of last night's game was 18 to 13, and the Badgers were kept hustling to keep their string of victories up.

A Perfect Anagram. It will be recalled that when Christ was brought before Pilate, the Roman governor (according to St. John's version of the story) asked him, "What is truth?"

In the Latin text of the Vulgate the question runs, "quid est veritas?" Now, the answer is found in the question itself, without adding or subtracting a single letter. "Est vir qui adest, the rearrangement gives us, 'It is the man who stands before you.'—Youth's Companion.

BASEBALL PLAYERS BARRED AS SCRIBES

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—President Ban Johnson of the American league has withered the literary hopes of his players. Through an order that reached here today no player will be permitted to report or criticize the game.

Johnson decided during the last world's series that the majority of the star players whose names appeared attached to special newspaper articles were "taking money under false pretenses" and in many cases causing ill feeling by their supposed comment on the playing of their fellows. He investigated and found that in most instances the player had never written or dictated the stories at all.

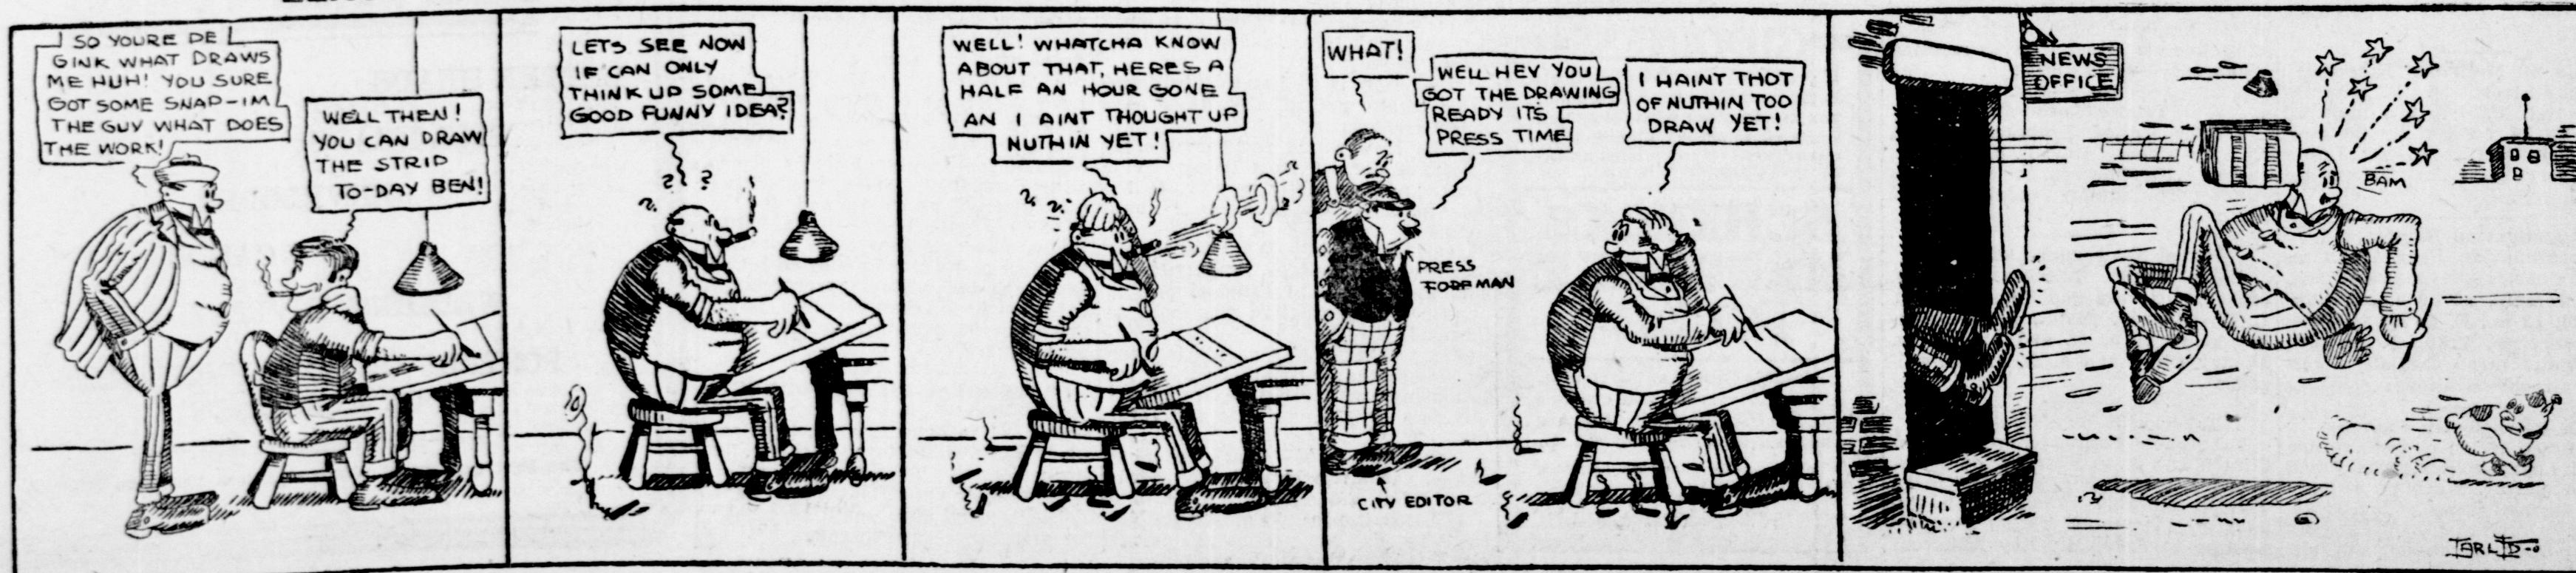

The craze for special articles on the big games signed by such players as Cobb, Rube Marquard, Home Run Baker and Walter Johnson went to such extremes that the regular baseball writers and cartoonists poked all manner of fun at the proposition.

LOVE LETTERS OF GENERAL PICKETT

THE LOYAL MEN OF GEN. PICKETT'S DIVISION BUILDING BONFIRES TO CELEBRATE THE BIRTH OF "THE LITTLE GENERAL," HIS SON

The following letter was written upon the news to General Pickett of the birth of his son, "The Little General," as he was known in the whole confederate army:

"God bless you, little mother of our boy—bless and keep you! Heaven in all its glory shine upon you. Eden's flowers bloom eternal for you! Al-moset with every breath since the message came, relieving my anxiety and telling me that my darling lived and that a little baby had been born to us. I have been a baby myself. Though I have known all these months that from across Love's enchanted land this little child was on its way to our twin souls, now that God's promise is fulfilled and it has come I can't believe it. As I think of it, I feel the stir of Paradise in my senses, and my spirit goes up in thankfulness to God for this. His highest and best—the one perfect flower in the garden of Life—Love."

"Blinding tears rolled down my cheeks, my sweetheart, as I read the glad tidings. And a feeling so new, so strange, came over me that I asked of the angels what it could be, and whence came the strains of celestial music which filled my soul, and what were the great, grand, stirring hosannas and the soft, tender, sweet adagio that circle around and around, warm me my every vein, beat my every pulse. And—oh, little mother of my boy—the echoing answer came—'A little baby has been born to you, and he and the new made mother live.'"

Following the failure of the peace conference which preceded General Lee's surrender, General Pickett wrote:

"On every side gloom, dissatisfaction and disappointment seem to have settled over all men and officers alike, because of the unsuccessful termination of the peace conference on board the River Queen on the fatal third. The anxious, despairing faces I see everywhere bespeak heavy hearts. Our commissioners knew that we were gasping our last gasp and that the peace conference was a forlorn hope. Because of the informality of the conference, and my knowledge of Mr. Lincoln, his humanity, his broad nature, his warm heart, I did believe he would take advantage of this very informality and spring some wise, superhuman surprise which would, somehow, restore peace, and in time insure unity. Now, heaven help us, it will be war to the knife, with a knife no longer keen, the thrust of an arm no longer strong, the certainty that when peace comes it will follow the tread of the conqueror."

Again, in the same strain, he writes:

"Ah, Chulita mia, the triumphs of might are transient; but the sufferings and crucifixions for the right can never be forgotten. The sorrow and song of my glory crowned division nears its doxology. May God pity those who wait at home for the soldier who has reported to the Great Commander. God pity them as the days go by and the sad nights follow. The soldier is done with tears and time, and to him a thousand years are as one."

Domestic Hints

(From The Scotch-American)

To remove ink stains from handkerchiefs place a piece of clean blotting paper under the stain and rub with a slice of raw tomato.

To remove a rusty screw apply a hot iron to its head for a few minutes and then remove it in the usual way with a screwdriver. The screw will then come out easily.

A good curling fluid for the hair can be made by melting a piece of white beeswax, about the size of a nut, in an ounce of olive oil, and scenting the mixture with otto of roses.

Rubber bands are most useful for keeping sleeves out of the way when doing housework. Pull your sleeves up as far as you want them to go, and put the bands round your arms over the sleeves.

To clean brass ornaments wash them with strong ammonia. The fancy parts should be well scrubbed with a brush dipped in ammonia. Rinse in clear water, wipe dry, and polish with a wash lather.

without either party being to blame for the cause of the quarrel?

(14.)—

(15.) Verses 8-9—If you learn that one party to a dispute shows an arbitrary spirit and is determined to fight it to a finish how would you estimate him morally and spiritually?

(16.) Would you regard it to be possible or not, and why, for a man to be a truly good man and yet to be quarrelsome or anything akin to it?

(17.) What do you think of Abram's offer to settle the dispute with Lot?

(18.) When a partner makes a proposition to either give or accept certain conditions to settle a partnership dispute and the other partner refuses how would you characterize the two men?

(19.) Verses 10-13—When we have the choice of living with our families in a community of Godless people with big business possibilities or in a community of Godly people with doubtful business possibilities which should we choose and why?

(20.) Verses 14-18—If an industrious man acts generously with his neighbor and walks humbly with God what are his business prospects?

Wrong Volume

A husband who has dined and wine finds his way home in the wee sma' hours. He reaches the library just as he hears his wife's footsteps at the head of the stairs leading to her bedroom. He hastily reaches for a book from the library shelves, drops into a big easy chair and has the book spread across his lap as his wife enters. "Just reading, dear. This book has been in the library 5 years. I've made up my mind dozen of times to finish it. Don't worry, my dear. You go to bed. I'll continue reading." The wife, in tones of mingled disgust and authority, replied: "John, close up that checkerboard and come to bed."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Not Quite the Same

A charming but not over-tactful hostess once seated at a dinner table a young debutante next to a learned but slightly deaf professor. The young lady was at much pains to make conversation with the learned man, but did not seem to progress well. Finally, noticing a dish of fruit, she said in desperation: "Do you like bananas?"

He appeared not to hear her, so she repeated the question. He turned toward her and asked her to speak louder, which she did, attracting the attention of the whole table. The learned man bent upon her a look of stern reproof and to her horror replied,

"My dear young lady, I had hoped I misunderstood your question, but since you insist, I must say that I prefer the old fashioned night shirt."—National Monthly.

Undressing the Chickens

A little slum child was enjoying his first glimpse of pastoral life. The setting sun was gliding the grass and roses of the old fashioned garden, and on a little stool he sat beside the farmer's wife, who was plucking a chicken.

He watched the operation gravely for some time. Then he spoke: "Do you take off their clothes every night, lady?"—Youth's Companion.

CHURCH NEWS

American Chief British Rabbi

Jews of England have a unique position to bestow, one that is wholly unlike anything Jews of America, far greater in numbers, give to any one. It is that of Chief Rabbi. In a sense it is the highest honor that can come to a Jew in our day. The chief is rabbi of what is known as the Great Synagogue, located in Duke's Place, in the east end of London. It is the oldest synagogue in the city, and not now situated in the most delightful place of residence in the world. The chief must maintain an office there, but is not required himself to live there. The chief rabbi is supreme in spiritual affairs of Jews of Great Britain and all its colonies.

The Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Hertz of New York, who has just been chosen chief rabbi of Great Britain at a salary of $10,000 a year and a pension for his family, is only thirty-eight years of age, and was educated in New York City. He has served as rabbi in Johannesburg, South Africa. The principal reasons why an American was chosen, an innovation, was the decision of British Jews to elect only one who could speak English. That shut out many of the foremost London rabbis. Of those that were left some local jealousy played its part, and an American choice was the outcome.

Noonday Services During Lent

Where churches in business sections of cities are not available, theaters and halls, sometimes chambers of commerce buildings, are being employed this Lent for noonday religious services for business people. The numbers of these services has grown markedly within the past five years, and there has been an increase this present Lent of twenty per cent. The increase in the number of women in business offices has greatly increased attendance at these noonday services, until in some down town churches the noonday services far surpass the Sunday ones in numbers at them.

Plan to Secure Greater Efficiency

For a dozen years, perhaps more, Congregationalists have been discussing efficiency plans, especially in missionary work and in publications. Throughout all conferences seem to have run theories that there ought to be as much centralized authority as possible without upsetting Puritan history and convictions. A proposal that was most to be remarked, and that brought out greatest discussion and criticism, was one to make a secretary who should be, in duties and authority, comparable with the Presbyterian general assembly moderator or the Episcopal presiding bishop.

A committee has just made a final report, after hearing suggestions and criticisms for two years. This committee recommends that a national council, a voluntary body heretofore meeting once in three years, meet hereafter every two, and that it become incorporated. A proposal that there be a central body for home missions is modified to larger memberships in executive committees of existing missionary societies, in part through a commission of missions, and that Congregationalists secure, by these means, larger control over administration of their own missionary work. Ultimate consolidation of societies is looked forward to.

The secretaryship, the powers of which were thought by many to be extraordinary, is still recommended, but with less authority than at first suggested. The whole matter was put forward by the national council, and the criticism, helpful and destructive, was invited in order to learn the mind of Congregationalists. The council meets in Kansas City next October, when the report of its commission, now made public, will be received and acted upon.

Mr. J. E. Zimmer, Mgr.,
La Crosse Motor Car Co.,
City.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your inquiry in regard to my 1912 Cadillac Car will say, after driving a ———— two years and a ———— two years and several other cars considerable, I purchased a Cadillac 1912 Model which I have driven 2,400 miles, and while I live in one of the best towns in the Northwest, my driving has been all in the country. After this experience I am glad to say that I never knew what it was to drive a good car until I bought a Cadillac as far as comfort and pleasure are concerned, and I can say further that I have not had to use a crank nor a wrench except to tighten the fan belt. I have had no expense, whatsoever, except on plug porcelain, price fifty cents. The car is very economical and exceptionally so on lubricating oil. I have never been able to boil water in radiator. I, therefore, feel I can heartily recommend the Cadillac to those who are thinking of purchasing.

Yours very truly,

MANY SALESMEN MAKE MISTAKES

"The automobile salesman who, in this day, makes extravagant claims for his car, is making a great mistake," says C. F. Mason, of Mason's Carriage Works, local dealer in Chalmers cars. "Time was when the purchaser of a car was almost wholly dependent on the salesman in making a choice. But that day has passed. The automobile buying public is now so generally familiar with the construction of cars that the salesman who makes fallacious or extravagant statements is nothing short of a fool.

There are, when one has determined the price to be paid for a car, four essential features which should be considered. These are safety, comfort, mechanical perfection and appearance. I put safety first, because no man wants to risk his life in a poorly constructed car. The most perfect motor in the world would be useless in a car whose wheels were broken and whose frame was twisted on the first bump.

There are four great elements of safety in every automobile: strong frame, strong steering gear and connections, strong wheels and large and powerful brakes. Every purchaser should study these carefully.

"I have placed comfort second in the requirements of a good car, because no one wants to ride in an uncomfortable automobile, no matter how perfect it may be otherwise.

"By mechanical perfection, I mean usability. One obviously wants a motor that will run. A few points deserve special consideration. Be sure that the cooling system is efficient and that lubrication is satisfactory. See that the various parts of the motor are readily accessible and that the whole is well constructed.

"I have placed appearance as the last requirement. The public now demands an automobile which looks well, and most makers satisfy the demand to a more or less extent. But there are certain niceties of finish which give a car a really handsome appearance. Are the fenders graceful and well set on the body? Are the doors of the tonneau wide and graceful? Are the metal parts in good taste? And lastly, is the actual finish of the car of a handsome and wearing quality? These are points which should not be neglected."

TRUCK CHEAPER THAN HORSE

Chief I. T. Kirby of the Marshalltown, Iowa, fire department has submitted to his city government a report comparing the cost and efficiency of a horse and chemical wagon with the horse-drawn vehicle which it replaced.

Chief Kirby in his report shows that during the period from April 1 to Dec. 1, 1912 there were sixty-nine alarms. Comparing the cost of maintenance during the eight months of the previous year, Chief Kirby presents the following figures:

Cost of maintaining team, eight months, including feed, shoeing, harness and veterinary service, $331.35.

Cost of maintaining automobile eight months, including gas, oil, preservative and repairs, $25.17.

Cost of maintaining automobile per month, $2.09.

Cost of maintaining team per fire, $4.80.

Cost of maintaining automobile per fire, 36 cents.

Balance in favor of automobile per fire, $4.44.

Balance in favor of automobile per month, $39.33.

Balance in favor of automobile per year, $471.96.

It will be seen that the cost per fire for the upkeep of the motor-driven truck was but 36 cents. The cost of upkeep of the automobile per month was less than the average cost for maintenance of a team per single fire.

HINTS ON USE OF SPARKING LEVER

Before starting a motor the spark lever should be in the "late" position in order to prevent the possibility of ignition before the piston has reached the center, which might result in the reversal of the engine, sometimes to the serious injury of the person at the crank.

After the motor is started the spark should be advanced in proportion to the speed at which the engine is running, not according to the amount of work the engine is doing, as novices sometimes think. This advance is needed because after the timer has made the contact which leads to the spark in the cylinder it takes a short but appreciable time for the charge to ignite and burn sufficiently to attain maximum pressure and so deliver the most power.

It is evident that the higher the piston speed the earlier in the stroke should the timer contact be made in order that the highest pressure may occur at the most advantageous point. If this comes after the piston has made part of the power stroke, its force is not fully utilized.

The best direction which can be given for timing the spark is: "advance or retard ignition until the motor pulls the best." When the car shows down, either from being throttled or from hard work, the spark must be retarded or the engine will pound and work against itself to some extent by exploding the charges before the crank reaches center. A good driver learns to observe the effects of manipulating the spark lever and to act accordingly.

Other reasons for advancing the spark are that early ignition allows the engine to run cooler and reduces the sound of the exhaust by resolving the energy into useful work instead of needless noise. It also lets the exhaust valve open easier and reduces wear on the valve gear.

The speed of the car should never be reduced by retarding the spark, as that cause waste of fuel and heating of motor; instead of doing something to make the fuel less efficient it is better to reduce the amount used.

When the car is stopped the spark lever should be put in position for safe starting, but if you leave the car always take a look before cranking, as some fool may have monkeyed with it during your absence.

After a man has fooled around a few years and failed to hit the nail of success on the head he breaks into the chronic kicker class.

INCOMPARABLE White Motor Cars

Electrically started and lighted

ECONOMY of operation is essential in the motor car of today. Low fuel consumption, however was a myth until The White Company introduced to America the principles of economy embodied in the small bore, long stroke, monobloc motor.

This type of gasoline engine, now universally recognized as the most economical and desirable design, has been brought to its greatest efficiency in WHITE CARS.

For this season, WHITE CARS are really economical in operation, more so than any other cars of equal size and power.

CADILLAC VICTOR IN GRAVITY TEST

A Cadillac car, 1913 model, was completely victorious recently in a unique contest at Riverside, Cal., a coasting event in which twenty-two cars, representing twenty-four different makes, were entered and was watched by 7,000 people. The cars were sent down a grade with the power shut off, gravity supplying the energy. Besides providing Riverside an attractive holiday and considerable excitement, the contest had its value from the standpoint of motor car demonstration and comparison because, all other things being equal, lack of friction is the factor that enables a car to win such a contest, or, in other words, to "roll" the farthest.

EXPECTS SALE OF $30,000,000

"More than thirty millions of dollars will be expended this year for Cadillacs alone," said Sales Manager Howard. "Our 1913 output will be 15,000 cars, for every one of which we have dealers' orders on file, and the average price is somewhat in excess of $2,000."

"TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE"

Asked the other day if it was not out of Eugene Walter's line to make a dramatization from a novel such as "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which appears in a special birthday performance at the La Crosse theater tonight, Charlotte Walker said: "Yes, but the character of June is one that I love so dearly that he secured the dramatic rights just for me, and the play is a gift from him to me—one of which I am very, very proud. It is the sort of play which I have longed for ever since I went on the stage. It is clean and beautiful and permeated with wholesome sentiment. It is the sort of play which I can carry to my own people—the people of the south. You know the southerner does not relish the grim and the tragic in the theater. Some of the phases of life which are depicted in a modern drama of New York life are entirely beyond the experience and the ken of the dear ones I love at home. And so I have longed for such a play as this, so that I could make my first tour of the south."

"THE QUAKER GIRL"

The most wonderfully lyrical musical play of a decade, "The Quaker Girl," which is coming to this city, will be seen at the La Crosse theater Tuesday, February 25. This great English operetta was the tremendous hit of the coronation year in London, where it ran for two solid years at George Edwards' Royal Adelphi theater, from whence it went to Paris for a year and ran all last year at the Park theater in New York, with record breaking success. The plot of the story which weaves adroitly into one complete and melodious whole, the twenty wonderful lyrics of the piece, concerns the adventures and love affairs of a young Quaker girl, who is cast off by her own people and who goes to Paris to see the world. She falls in love, quarrels with her jealous sweetheart and makes it up again and goes to a grand ball as the guest of a prince where she turns the heads of the nation, but she remains true to Tony, though he doubts it and the romance ends beautifully as all romances should. The role of Tony Chute, the hero of the play, is enacted by Victor Morley, who is perfectly irresistible with his buoyant spirits, his graceful dancing and his magnetic personality. The libretto is delightful, the music is lilting and heart reaching, too, at times, and the spectacle of the grand ball with its scores of beautiful women dazingly gowned and bejeweled, is almost beyond description.

Lincoln's Last Law Case.

Lincoln tried his last case in Chicago. It was the case of Jones versus Johnson in April and May, 1860, in the United States circuit court before Judge Drummond. The case involved the title to land of very great value, the accretion on the shore of Lake Michigan. During the trial Judge Drummond and all the counsel on both sides, including Lincoln, dined together at the house of Isaac N. Arnold.

At the conclusion of the dinner this toast was proposed: "May Illinois furnish the next president of the United States." It was drunk with great enthusiasm by the friends of both Lincoln and Douglas.—Chicago Record-Herald.

LOCAL SPORTSMEN
FOUNDED LEAGUE

Wisconsin Fish and Game Protective Organization
Originated in La Crosse

LOCAL MAN IS FIRST PRESIDENT

John P. Bird Chosen Head
When Association Organized in 1912

The Wisconsin Fish and Game Protective and Propagation league had its origin in the efforts of some members of the La Crosse County Hunting and Fishing association who felt the need and desirability of union of effort to secure helpful legislation, the cultivation of higher ideals in sportsmanship, and a more general observance of the laws relating to fish and game. Upon inquiry they found the same feeling existing among sportsmen elsewhere and a resolution was introduced at the club looking towards a state organization. Conference with the officers of the fish and game warden's department of the state gave assurance of sympathy and assistance of the state officials in such a movement and by resolution the La Crosse County Hunting and Fishing association issued a call for a meeting to be held at Madison May 28, 1912, for the purpose of forming a state organization for the conservation of wild life.

Met at Madison

The meeting was held in the assembly chamber at Madison, about thirty delegates from clubs in different parts of the state being present. The meeting was called to order and Milo Micklestone of Waukesha, was chosen president pro tem and Alexander Dean of Eau Claire, secretary. A committee on organization was appointed and another for nomination of officers. All delegates from organized clubs and sportsmen present from towns where there were no clubs were admitted to participate in the proceedings. A constitution was reported and adopted, article by article. The committee on nominations recommended the election of the following officers:

First Officers

President, John P. Bird, LaCrosse.
Vice president, G. W. Capping of Whitewater.

Secretary-treasurer, Alexander Dean of Eau Claire.
Executive committee: E. P. Troutman, Menomonee; A. H. Ward, Pewaukee; E. S. Kelley, Manitowoc; W. E. Sprecker, Independence; C. W. Smith, Portage.

The recommendation was adopted unanimously. Some by-laws were adopted and the executive committee was authorized to make others. A legislative committee consisting of R. B. Graves, of Sparta; E. F. Hinsel, of Whitehall; Milo Micklestone, of Waukesha; and a press committee consisting of R. C. Thielman, of Tomahawk; R. K. Brandt, Manitowoc; R. K. McDonald, of Stevens Point, were chosen. After some discussion of the work to be done by the league it adjourned.

Later, the executive committee met at La Crosse, provided some additional by-laws, recommended an amendment to the constitution providing for proportional representation, made provision for printing the constitution and by-laws and provided for a communication inviting clubs throughout the state to become members.

The annual meeting which occurs the first week in December was held at Madison Dec. 6, 1912. The proposed amendment to the constitution giving each club an additional vote for every fifty members was adopted. Voting is by clubs but individuals can become members. A lengthy discussion was had regarding the work and needs of the league and of legislation desired. A resolution approving the passage of a federal law relating to migratory birds was adopted. At the evening session the officers were re-elected and the following executive committee was unanimously elected:

Executive Committee

E. P. Troutman, Menomonee.
E. S. Kelley, Manitowoc.
J. B. Gulbraith, Stanley.
Dr. A. T. Rasmussen, La Crosse.
T. L. McGlachlin, Stevens Point.
The same legislative committee was continued and the president was authorized by resolution to appoint a new press committee. The following have been appointed as such committee:

A. M. Brayton, La Crosse.
Harry N. Katz, Milwaukee.
Edward B. Barr, Marshfield.

The Objects of the League

As set forth in the constitution, "Its objects shall be the preservation and propagation of fish, game, song and insect-eating birds; to procure the enactment of proper laws for their protection and propagation; to co-operate with and assist the proper authorities, regularly organized societies, clubs and individuals in enforcing the laws for the protection of the same; and to promote interest in the purposes above stated."

The importance of the objects set forth is much greater than most people are aware unless they have given the matter some attention. To many the only thought is to provide better fishing and hunting for those who incline to those forms of sport, and to those that is a sufficient reason for supporting the league. To some the value of the fish and game as articles of food justifies the effort put forth for their preservation or increase. But a larger value than both of these is the influence upon the health and happiness of the people by furnishing an attractive and entertaining inducement for out-

The World's Best Medicines!
Who Discovered Them, The People?S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.
Columbus, Ohio.

I am manufacturing five different remedies, which are supplied to the regular drug trade, for use in the home. In my writings I rarely speak of but one of these remedies, Peruna, but there are four others which I am continually prescribing.

There is, first, Manalin, which is an up-to-date laxative. Pleasant to take, if the children do not cry for it, at least they do not object to it. As a matter of fact, I know one child that actually cries for it, every time he sees the bottle. Manalin is, of course, useful in all cases where a laxative is needed. Biliousness or constipation. Always at the beginning of an acute disease a full dose of Manalin to the stomach, bowels or lower organs, or is to be advised. It can be given to the youngest baby and is perfectly effective for older people. It is not drastic. Produces very nearly a natural movement of the bowels.

Then I also have the Manalin Tablets, which are similar in composition to the fluid Manalin. In tablet form they are more convenient for some people. I believe them to be the best laxative tablet in the market. They are certainly made of the very best material, and constitute a safe, convenient and effective laxative.

Then there is the Lacupia, a blood remedy. This remedy I regard as an alternative of first class quality in every particular. It is strictly vegetable, free from the usual mineral poisons that are used in alternative remedies. It is specifically a blood medicine. Sores of all sorts, blood contaminations of every kind, are treated with Lacupia. If you have a running sore, external or internal, your blood is contaminated, by infection or otherwise. Lacupia, taken according to the directions on the bottle, is sure to produce beneficial results. In most cases it can be relied upon to entirely eradicate the trouble. In any case where it seems to fail a letter to me will be given prompt attention and I will endeavor to discover why a complete cure has not been experienced.

The Peruna I am speaking of so frequently I need not describe at length. It is my old-time catarrh remedy with a laxative element added. As it stands today it is without a rival as a tonic laxative. Applicable to all cases of catarrh, whether the catarrh is located in the head, nose, throat or whether in the stomach, bowels or lower organs, or in the larynx, bronchial tubes or lungs, or whether in the kidneys or other pelvic organs. In all cases of catarrh Peruna is my remedy.

Besides the Peruna I am manufacturing Peruna Tablets. The Peruna Tablets contain essentially the same ingredients as the fluid Peruna. In some cases it is more convenient for a patient to be able to carry tablets in the pocket. They have been manufactured on purpose to meet such cases. I manufacture the Peruna Tablets in my own laboratory, the same as the Manalin Tablets, and I can guarantee them to be perfectly pure, free from all objectionable materials and in a condition to be readily absorbed by the stomach.

Yes, I have five remedies. First, the Peruna and the Peruna Tablets. Second, the Manalin and the Manalin Tablets. Third, the Lacupia. These are manufactured in my own laboratory and I can personally vouch for their purity and effectiveness.

It seems to me that any household provided with Peruna, Manalin and Lacupia would be ready to meet most of the ailments to which the human family is subject. Surely there are no better remedies to be obtained for the purposes for which I recommend them. There are no remedies that can excel them in composition or pharmaceutical skill. The material used in them all is the best and purest.

fulness of both. Is there not something that you can do to help the work on?

Voting Terms.

"Ballot" as generally used, has wandered far from its original meaning of "little ball." Even "blackballing" is no longer necessarily literal. Language has several fossil relics of primitive methods of voting. Most famous is "ostracism," which perpetuates the memory of the "ostrakon," the potsherd or shell upon which the Athenian citizen voted for the banishment of a too prominent personage. Another instance is "spondulicks," the slang word for money. A "spondulus," properly a vertebra of the spine, came to mean any round thing and in particular the voting pebble or its metal equivalent—Exchange.

$4,500 SUBSCRIBED

For Free Factory Sites For La Crosse

Four blocks known as the Sawyer and Austin Mill Site, and fifty-one acres adjoining on the north, have been listed with me for sale. This property is located north of Gillette street, and is divided by Caledonia street. There are two railroads running through this tract of land, and street car within one block, making this an ideal factory site. This property can be bought for $20,000. One good factory located on this site will create a value for the remaining property, so that four blocks may be platted and if sold at $300 per lot, will create a fund of $26,400, and there will still be 51 acres left for factory sites, which may be given free, as an inducement to any desirable factories.

A number of men have thought favorably of this proposition and have subscribed $4,500, so that now $15,500 is needed to carry out this plan. Subscriptions from $100 up are being received with the understanding that each subscriber is to hold an interest in the land to the amount of his subscription. When this fund is large enough a holding company will be organized to take charge of this fund and make the purchase.

LET ME HEAR FROM YOU.

BLAME MILITANTS FOR FIRE LONDON, Feb. 22.—Police today blame suffragettes for the Kempton Park race track fire which was a fizzle, so far as damage is concerned. The police are without proof that the fire was the work of the militants but signs about the place indicated that the women started the fire.
